Odyssey's Best: School Lunch

Twenty-nine minutes of precious time known as lunch! A break in the routine of classes, needed midday nourishment, last chance to get that homework assignment done, hear the latest hot bit of school gossip; lunch is a special time at Parkville.

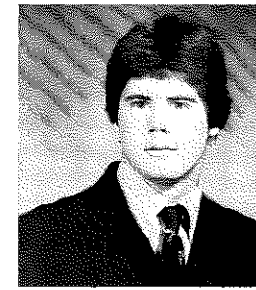

Although jokes about the cafeteria food have long been a standard item, most Parkville students make some type of food purchase each day. Odyssey found the cheese steak subs to be the cafeteria's best meal and the hamburgers (we think that's what they're supposed to resemble) to be the worst.

Many people brown bag it like diet fanatics Debbie Baldwin and Sue Harris who often dined on the home made special of Tab and yogurt. Sue explained the advantage of bringing your own lunch: "I have the choice to eat whatever I want that's in my house." Special attention must be made of those seniors who like to live and eat dangerously by sneaking out to McDonalds and then eating their lunch in the cafeteria.

Lunch often started early in Odyssey where each staff member was given a cake on his or her birthday. Jenny Houston celebrates her 18th birthday here with fellow staff members.
